Visual question answering

Conceptual region-attention model: the question selects visual evidence and also enters answer fusion.

Question-conditioned weights pool region values; a separate question path preserves linguistic context.