Audio-text contrastive learning and zero-shot scoring

CLAP-style conceptual view: learn a common embedding space, then score natural-language class descriptions.

Training aligns paired audio and descriptions; zero-shot inference ranks candidate text embeddings by cosine similarity.